

PATRICK KING BIO

Patrick King currently attends Pfeiffer University in Misenheimer, NC, where he is majoring in computer information systems. He received both academic and athletic scholarships to attend the university, where he swims on the Varsity Men's Swim Team and sings every chance he gets. He serves on Pfeiffer's newly created Autism Center Committee. At home, he is son to David and Susan and brother to Katie, Emily, and Sarah. He was thrilled when another male joined the King clan, as his sister Katie recently married Curt Morgan. Diagnosed with autism at age five, Patrick overcame dire predictions to achieve major accomplishments academically, athletically, and socially. As a result, he enjoys helping others find hope and encouragement on the autism and special needs journey. As a powerful speaker, vocalist, and writer, he relishes the opportunity to encourage parents, inspire others, and thank teachers and coaches for their impact on his and other students' lives. Patrick is especially passionate about helping people know of the love, hope, and grace found in Jesus. When he is not studying, speaking, swimming, or singing, Patrick enjoys playing and designing video games.